Independent University Bangladesh (IUB) Environment Club recently organised an event titled 'Nature's Route to Health - Bridging the Divide', which was sponsored by Caarmate in collaboration with Project 'Arodhya'. Bangladesh economic statistics

The event, which aimed at highlighting the interconnectedness of the environment and well-being, took place at the Multipurpose Hall of IUB. The initiative was aligned with Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) 3, 15, and 17 and showcased an innovative approach to addressing health and the environment, says a press release on Tuesday.

The distinguished guest list included Dr Senjuti Saha, director and senior scientist at the Child Health Research Foundation and recognised as one of the 100 scientists in Asia.

Special guests Ashraful Haque Nobel, an Environment Specialist at USAID Bangladesh and Dr K Ayaz Rabbani, Head of the Department of Environmental Science and Management at IUB, added depth to the discussions.

Mr Atif M Safi, Head (in-charge) of the Division of Student Activities (DoSA), and Mr Farhad Hossain, Junior Officer at DoSA, also attended the programme.

Club President Jannatul Ferdous Mohona hosted the event.

The event drew an engaged audience of students and club presidents, fostering collective learning and motivation through discussions and sessions. The IUB Music Club concluded
